

In April 1992, Elsie Irene Todd Daniels and John Cecil Daniels, went on a canoe trip across the Okefenokee Swamp with Chuck Place and his neighbor, a good friend, (? Carol?). Elsie said it was a harder trip than she had expected, getting stuck on vegetation, etc. and avoiding the numerous alligators ("don't feed 'em, don't fight 'em"). Chuck "painted a crazy picture" of the alligator calling to them at night, "he wants you to come feed him, then he'll drag you in for the others."

Chuck knew the way through the swamp and how to orient on the "trails" (?canals?) and read the signals.

As the canoe trip was one way, the elder Daniels son, Earl and his oldest child Nyssa, came over from Valdosta to drive them back to their vehicles they had left at the beginning of the trip.

4.21.92

LAURA S. WALKER
STATE PARK

42192

4 22 '92

4/22/92

BIG WATER
WILDERNESS CANOE
OVERNIGHT STOP
PERMIT REQUIRED

4/23/92

4.24.92

427'92